Gen. Pershing will be in Nashville tonight and a reception will be given him at the auditorium.

The strike lasted 34 work days at a loss to the miners of $1,500,000 a day in wages, or a little matter of $51,000,000.

A man in Trinity County, California, 126 miles from the county seat of Weaverville, had to travel 1038 miles around the mountains to serve on the jury, at an expense of $75.

A Kansas City man about to be married paid a lawyer $50 to give him legal advice about getting into and out of matrimony and decided to remain single.

Ernest Loeffler, a Louisville kid boy, was given six months in jail for fighting and his grandmother bought a whip and told the court that when he got home she would be ready and waiting to make May more unpleasant than December. Ernest is not likely to hurry home.

Garfield is right. With a commission made up of three men—one a coal operator, one a miner and the other a politician, the price of coal will be boosted higher at the expense of the public. The commission ought to be made up of three Federal Judges.

Harry W. Berger, attorney for Berkman and Goldman, admits that his clients are anarchists, but says to send them into the territory of Gen. Yudenitch is equivalent to a death sentence. It does nook like unloading some of our own duties on to the Russian anarchist exterminator.

TOLD TO GO BACK TO WORK

CIRCULARS PREPARED IN INDIANAPOLIS ARE SENT TO ALL LOCAL UNIONS

8,000 REFUSE TO GO TO WORK

Garfield Resigns Rather Than Be a Party To Increasing the Price of Coal.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 12.—Members of the United Mine Workers of America are urged to return to work with the least possible delay, in order that the public needs for coal may be promptly met, in a circular prepared by the international officers of the organization yesterday afternoon and which will be sent to the four thousand local unions as soon as it can be printed.

The circular was issued to supplement instructions sent out by wire and contains an explanation of the action of the general committee in voting to accept the President's proposal for settlement of the strike.

GARFIELD RESIGNS AS RESULT OF STRIKE ISSUE

Opposes Any Increase in the Price of Coal.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Fuel Administrator Garfield's resignation was tonight in the hands of President Wilson, given because he disagreed on principles with the coal strike settlement proposal arranged by the Government and the mine workers' union.

Dr. Garfield himself refused tonight to confirm, deny or discuss the report, but at the White House it was said that a personal letter from him had been transmitted to the President late this afternoon.

Men close to the fuel administrator understand that he believes that the work of the commission, authorized under the settlement, to be made up of one coal mine operator, a coal miner and a third person named to represent the public will result in an increase in the price of coal to the consuming public. Against this form of settlement Dr. Garfield has been unalterably opposed. It has been learned on good authority that he took no part in the negotiations with the mine workers' union chiefs during the last week, and that though informed and consulted after their initiation, the terms laid out as finally accepted contravened his conception of the main principle involved.

It was recalled in connection with the resignation that in suggesting a 14 per cent. wage increase as fair for the miners and possible to be paid from present profits of mine owners, Dr. Garfield suggested a commission representative of the industry to review the finding, but expressed the conviction that such a body should have the power to fix prices. His belief is said to be that with this power granted a combination of the employer and the employee in the industry to mulct the public by price rises is certain to result.

Whether the President will accept the resignation is not known. Members of the Cabinet, however, are known to be supporting the settlement program as put through by Attorney General Palmer. President Wilson sent a telegram of congratulation to Acting President John L. Lewis, of the mine workers, on the action taken at Indianapolis.

It is not generally known that the assessment of city property, that used to be taken in January is now taken six months earlier, as of July 1.

Heavy Loss On Potatoes.

L. O. Brumfield, the truck gardener, on rural route No. 8, suffered a heavy loss from having about 400 bushels of potatoes frozen in the ground this week. They were of fine quality but inspection shows that the crop has been entirely destroyed.

RETAILERS CAN OPEN NINE HOURS SATURDAY

Washington, Dec. 12.—Relaxation of restrictions on heating and lighting to permit retail stores to remain open nine hours on Saturdays was announced last night by the railroad administration.

This concession, it was said, was made to accommodate the heavy buying due to the near approach of the Christmas holiday season.

On other days of the week the six hour opening regulation will continue in force.

TOBACCO IS ROLLING IN

Hundreds of Wagons Are Bringing The Weed That Fills the Farmers' Pockets.

Tobacco has been rolling in at a rapid rate for the last several days and the prices have remained higher than ever known, though $47 early in the week remains the high water mark of the season.

Some of the tobacco coming in is of the better grades and it is not unusual for a farmer to bring in a two-horse wagon load of tobacco, drawn by a scrawney pair of horses or mules, the weed covered by red bed quilts, and return with $1,000 to $1500 in his pocket. Tobacco is selling for more in its raw state than tenderloin, beefsteak, country ham or lard. One pound of good leaf is worth two pounds of sugar or four of flour. It is even worth its weight in eggs, a dozen usually weighing 1 1/2. It is conceded that the crop is the greatest ever grown in the Black Patch and the prices are the highest ever dreamed of. The 40,000,000 lb. marketed in Hopkinsville will bring a $10,000,000, at a low calculation.

STRIKE IS OVER RESTRICTIONS STILL ON COAL

MINERS ACCEPT WILSON'S OFFER AND WILL RESUME THEIR WORK

ONLY ONE DISSENTING VOTE

Fourteen Per Cent. Wage Increase Basis—No Relaxation of Rules For Some Time.

Indianapolis, Dec. 11.—The coal miners' strike was ended yesterday, when, with but one dissenting vote, the general committee of the United Mine Workers of America voted to accept President Wilson's proposal for immediate return to work pending final settlement of their wage controversy by a commission to be appointed by him.

The terms of the settlement as agreed to by the miners provide for immediate return to work at 14 per cent increase in wages over the wartime scale, against a continuation of which the miners struck. Operation of the mines will be resumed, except as to wages, on the same basis which obtained prior to the strike.

Men Ordered Back.

Telegrams were sent out to the four thousand locals of the union by internal officers of the mine workers, instructing the men to return to work immediately.

Operators predicted full resumption of operations Friday and shipment of coal from the mines beginning Monday morning.

Miners, operators and Government officials alike were highly gratified over the settlement, and all sides appeared confident a final satisfactory settlement of the fight by the commission.

The action ends a tie-up of the coal industry of more than five weeks duration and one which was more far-reaching than any in the history of the country. As a result of the strike the country was fast approaching a complete shutdown of industry and widespread suffering among its 100,000,000 inhabitants.

Follows Long Debate.

The decision of the miners came after many hours of debate, in which the radical element in the general committee made incendiary speeches against operators and others interested in the settlement of the strike and for a time threatened to defeat efforts to settle the strike at this time.

The conservative element, led by Acting President John L. Lewis and Secretary-Treasurer William Green, gained control of the situation, and succeeded in putting down practically all opposition by the time the question came to a vote.

One concession was made to the radicals. The convention agreed to the calling of a general convention of the miners at a future date, at which time the action of and reasons for the general committee will be fully explained. The opponents of acceptance of the President's plan made their fight principally on the theory that only a general convention of the mine workers had power to call off the strike.

Keep Name Secret.

Members of the general committee tonight steadfastly refused to make public the name of the delegates who cast the one dissenting vote.

Mr. Lewis' statement declared that the action of the general committee was taken with consciousness of the responsibilities of the miners to the nation during this acute industrial crisis and firm in the conviction that the word of the President of the United States will secure for the miners just consideration of their merited claims." He stated that the international convention of the miners would be reconvened in Indianapolis and a supplemental explanation given the delegates from all of the four thousand locals.

Loyal to Country.

Mr. Lewis declared that the action taken today "should demonstrate to the people of our country that the United Mine Workers of America are loyal to their country, and believe in the perpetuity of our Democratic institutions. No greater demonstration of such facts could be given than our action in accepting the proposal of the President of the United States."

It was indicated tonight that the charges of contempt, hearing of which was postponed until December 16, when it came up in Federal court Tuesday morning, will not be pushed. The government already had intimated that acceptance of the President's plan by the general committee would be considered compliance with the court's injunction against furtherance of the strike.

Restrictions Still On.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Expression by Government officials of satisfaction and relief at the settlement of the nation-wide strike of bituminous coal miners were coupled with warnings to the American people that early relaxation of the drastic restrictions on the consumption of coal must not be expected.

Fuel Administrator Garfield immediately on receipt of word that the miners in Indianapolis had agreed to accept the President's proposal, declared that immediate removal of regulations on soft coal consumption was not to be considered.

Director-General Hines, in a formal statement, asserted that dislocation created by the strike could not be remedied instantly. The public, Mr. Hines said, will be expected to continue conserving fuel until normal conditions are restored, but just as soon as practicable restrictions will be rescinded or modified.

GOV MORROW LOSE NO TIME

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 12.—The entire State board of control resigned after Gov. Morrow has demanded the resignation of Henry B. Hines, chairman, of Bowling Green, and Thomas Hatcher, of Louisville, "for pernicious political activity."

The governor in accordance with campaign pledges named Dr. W. A. Garfield, president of Centre College, Edward W. Hays, and Fred M. Barker, of only Clarence H. McElroy, of Bowling Green, and Mrs. LaVon Riker, of Paducah. Garfield and Barker are Republicans, while Hines and McElroy are Democrats. Mrs. Barker is the first woman ever appointed to the board.

AGED LADY GETS FALL

Mrs. Berelda West, aged 94, one of the oldest women in the city, fell down the cellar steps at her home on North Main street, Wednesday evening and was very seriously injured. Although no bones were broken, she sustained cuts and bruises and a severe nervous shock. She was resting comfortably yesterday and her recovery is hoped for in spite of her great age.

The highest flood stages in history overflowed the Chattahoochee river Wednesday, flooding portions of Columbus, Ga., and Girard and Phenix City, Ala., opposite Columbus, doing damage estimated at $1,000,000 and causing the loss of four lives. Selma, Ala., Laurel, Miss., and other cities are suffering greatly and train service was interfered with all over the South, by reason of the unprecedented rain storms.

A miniature race riot occurred at Beaver Dam, N. C., near Asheville. N. C., and unidentified white persons, including boys, destroyed a negro school house, and white youths later fired a shot gun into a crowd of negro students, slightly injuring one of them. The outbreaks resulted from fights between white and negro school children.

A campaign to prevent Cuba from becoming the Monte Carlo of the Western World and the Oasis of North America is to be launched by the Inter-Church Movement. Horse racing with other forms of gambling with liquor flowing freely is making Havana a Mecca for thousands of Americans this winter.

Two very lucky men are not likely to get what is coming to them. One of them caused the World War and the other brought on the coal strike, that caused a loss of millions to a suffering people.

The deportation of a few radical reformers would have much effect toward eliminating radicalism among other classes.

VETERANS HEAR MANY MISLEADING STATEMENTS

"I have been informed," writes a boy from Mississippi, "that all soldier boys would receive $360, or $30 a month for 12 months. Please write me if this is true."

It is true that the Federal Board of Vocational Education, to whom this letter was sent, retrained disabled service men in order that they may become self-supporting citizens. It places them in schools, colleges and institutes, and pays the expense. The sums paid range from $80 a month for a single man, to one hundred and fifty dollars a month for a married man, depending upon the number of his dependents.

The training is not limited to 12 months but is given for the length of time that it takes to complete the course to which the man is assigned. The courses vary for several months to four years.

The Mississippi boy who wrote the letter did not say that he was disabled. If he is not disabled, the Federal Board of Vocational Education cannot, under the present laws which govern its operations, do anything for him. He will have to look to Congress for help, and Congress is now considering the cases of veterans who did not receive a disability.

THOROUGHBREDS PROVE STRONGER

GREAT WAR TAUGHT IMPORTANCE OF BREEDING OF HORSES.

RACING ENCOURAGED ABROAD

Nations Who Bore Brunt of Conflict Maintained the Sport as Much as Possible as Matter of Sound Policy in its Relation to National Defense.

At no time in the course of the last five years, not even while the great war was at its height, did the Central Empires stop the racing of thoroughbred horses. The great tracks at Hamburg, Baden Pest, Vienna and Berlin were the scenes of brilliant gatherings, even when the Grand Duke Nicholas was threatening East Prussia with invasion and Brusilov was on the edge of the plains of Hungary with his wild Cossack riders. At no time during the course of the great war were American and English trainers and jockeys, who had been caught by the declaration of war in Germany and Austria-Hungary and were unable to obtain passports, interned. They were permitted by governments their governments, were seeking to destroy to pursue their accustomed callings unmolested and unrestrained.

To a certain extent racing was curtailed in Great Britain during the first two years of the great war. The use of the famous Epsom Downs course as a resting place for convalescing soldiers in the running of the famous British Derby at Newmarket in 1914, 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918. The preoccupation of the sportsmen of Great Britain in the business of war caused them, to a certain extent, to neglect the thoroughbred sides of 1915, 1916 and 1917, and Americans were enabled to slip in and buy up a lot of first-class stallions and mares with which to enrich the American thoroughbred industry.

France Alone Stops Racing.

Of the great nations participating in the great war, France alone felt the necessity of stopping horse racing. Threatened with utter destruction in a flood of Teutonic barbarism, France had to send to the fighting lines on the Marne, the Somme, the Aisne about Verdun, in the Vosges, every male Frenchman capable of bearing arms. Back of the fighting lines she had to mobilize the elderly men with the women and children for the imperative work of making munitions. Upon France alone fell the burden of resisting the German tide for upward of two years. Throughout the course of the war speed tests were held at the great French tracks, but not as public spectacles. But there was no letting down of the bars as regards the exportation from France of thoroughbred blood, any time during the war. As a special consideration citizens of the United States, a country from which the French, from the very beginning of the war, were drawing enormous quantities of military material, who had thoroughbred studs in France, such men as John Sanford, of Amsterdam, Major August Belmont, Joseph E. Widener and Thomas P. Thorne, were permitted, when transportation was available, to ship to the United States a limited number of thoroughbred yearlings. No matured thoroughbred stallions or mares were allowed to leave the country, whether their owners were Frenchmen or outsiders.

With the signing of the armistice France and England resumed racing with characteristic enthusiasm. The attendance at the race tracks about Paris has been greater this season than in any for the period of half a dozen years preceding the outbreak of the great war. The crowds that witnessed the running of the Derby, the Oaks, the Ascot Gold Cup, the Leger, etc., in Great Britain, were greater by the thousands than the greatest of ante-bellum race track gatherings.

Sport Encouraged in Europe.

In France and Great Britain the patronage of horse racing, by the public, has the highest government encouragement now as the support of racing had in Germany and Austria-Hungary even through the dark months when human beings were finding it difficult to obtain nourishing food. France and England recognize today as Germany and Austria-Hungary have for many days the indispensibility of thoroughbred blood to national defense and necessity of thoroughbred horse racing for the maintenance at its highest efficiency of thoroughbred blood.

For upward of seventy years previous to the beginning of the great war the military governments of continental Europe had been maintaining thoroughbred studs for the production of military horses, an earlier century of experimentation having demonstrated to the satisfaction of experts that it was the horse that boasted of the greatest proportion of thoroughbred blood that showed the highest efficiency in military service, whether as a trooper's mount, an artillery horse or a part of the transport service. The great war had not progressed two years before British and French specialists discovered that the life of the thoroughbred under the greatest conditions of war, independently of casualties, was twenty-five days, while that of the three-quarter bred was 20 to 22, of the half bred 17, of the trotter 14 and of the lesser breeds of horses of no particular breed 5 to 7.

English Learn Their Lesson.

Previous to the war of the nations the British government had left the production of horses for the army to private enterprise. The British had merely muddled along, as is their habit in most things. The difficulty the war office experienced in equipping with suitable horses the cavalry, transport and artillery services of the tremendous armies that were being assembled in France in 1916 and 1917, under Haig, convinced the rulers of the British Empire that the old haphazard scheme would not answer in future. The British Parliament was therefore constrained to accept the 1917 Major Hall Walker's generous offer of his entire thoroughbred stud as the nucleus of a great Imperial Military Horse Breeding establishment and to employ Lord Lonsdale to manage and race the produce of that establishment on the tracks of Great Britain for purposes of elimination as the Imperial German government had employed various scions of German royalty to race the produce of the national studs of Graditz and Trecken for thirty-five or forty years before the outbreak of the great war.

The munificence of Major Walker's gift to his country will be understood when it is realized that his stud had been taxed on a valuation of upward of $5,000,000. Now that the war is over Parliament is beginning to appropriate vast sums annually for the maintenance of this Imperial horse breeding establishment after the manner such establishments had been maintained in France, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy for half a century before the German invasion of Belgium. To promote the quick production of quantities of horses of thoroughbred, three-quarterbred and light bred types, this establishment is preparing to give direct support to the Canadian National Bureau of Breeding, which was established some seven or eight years prior to 1914, and which supplied the Canadian and British forces with thousands of splendid half breeds, and to create subsidiary branches in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India.—Advt.

Art of Chinese Gardeners.

Chinese gardeners sometimes plant statuettes of tiny men firmly in posts, just like real plants, and then train live evergreens to grow up over these statuettes. The vines thus form a kind of robe for the statuette men, their white faces and hands protruding from the green leaves.

Madness of the Moon.

So far as we can gather, there is no foundation for the old belief that the moon affects the mind and brings about madness in some people. The idea may have originated from the word "lunatic," which is derived from "luna" the moon.

Tuberculosis Among Chickens.

Two French scientists contend that 10 per cent of the chickens in that country have tuberculosis and that the disease runs as high as 28 per cent among poultry in some other countries.

Cloth From Bark of Tree.

The famous "tapi" cloth of Polynesia is made from the inner bark of the paper mulberry. When of the finest quality it is bleached to snowy whiteness and fine as muslin. In tropical Africa the inner bark of a leguminous tree is utilized in the same way. Indeed, it is surprising to learn how widely tree barks are employed as material for clothing the world over. And in the West Indies grows the "lace-bark tree," which yields a delicate tissue so like lace that many articles of feminine adornment are made from it.

Use of Drinking Water.

Drink whatever water you desire with meals, but do not take ice water, and do not use water merely to wash food down your throat. Water aids digestion by helping to liquefy the food and by bringing the gastric juices into closer contact with the food particles. Water does not affect the enzymes and weaken them by dilution as some people maintain, because the power of the enzymes depends not on the percentage which is present, but upon their total amount and chemical composition.

Trees of Sorrow.

The Persian "Trees of Sorrow" are so called because they bloom only at night. When the first star appears in the sky the first flower opens and as the evening advances more and more buds burst into bloom until the lovely tree appears to be one vast flower. It has a delicate fragrance not unlike the scent of the evening primrose. As the dawn approaches the flowers begin to fade until by sunrise not a bloom is to be seen.

NAVY NOT DRY.

"Yes," said Vaught, of the Naval Recruiting Office, "every ship in the Navy has its own distillery. Sounds bad doesn't it? But all it's used for is to distill water. It's part of the engineering plant. You see, our Navy spends most of its time floating around in salt water, and salt water will put a ship's boilers out of commission mighty quick. You can't always be running in port to get fresh water either. So they put a lot of salt water in an evaporator, a big tank with steam pipe running thru it. These pipes heat the salt water until it boils, and changes to steam, which passes through a pipe into a distiller, relatives.

leaving the salt behind. All the distiller does it to cool the steam until it changes to fresh water. Good drinking water, too—they used boiled water in the hospitals, I hear. Takes out all the germs. That's one reason why sailors are so healthy.

"I was showing an old lady visitor around my ship one day and when she saw the name 'Distiller' in the engine room she started to boil over herself. Wouldn't let me explain, and left the ship saying she would write the navy department about how all the sailors are making whiskey."

CAPITULATES TO WILSON

Washington, D. C.—The Republican majority of the Senate foreign relations committee has again capitulated to President Wilson's constitution power, after indulging in considerable bombast as to their rights to initiate diplomatic moves with other nations. This was made plain when the committee failed to press the resolution for severance of diplomatic relations with Mexico, as introduced by Senator Fall, of New Mexico, after receiving a pointed letter on the subject from the President. Plainly speaking, the Fall resolution is dead and so is the Republican attempt to upset the Constitution of the United States and all American historical precedent in this respect.

It was generally admitted that the Fall resolution was only an attempt to irritate the President, with the hope that his hand might be forced as regards the Mexican Government. It was an outgrowth of the attempts made—for public effect—by the Republican majority of the foreign relations committee during the League of Nations controversy to assert their preponderance in treaty-making power.

In his letter to Senator Fall the President minced no language in setting forth the difference between his powers and those of the Senate in relations with foreign governments, saying, in part:

"It (the Fall resolution) would constitute a reversal of our constitutional practice which might lead to a very grave confusion in regard to the guidance of our own foreign affairs. I am confident that I am supported by every competent constitutional authority in the statement that the initiative in directing the relations of our Government is assigned by the Constitution to the executive and the executive only."

The President elaborated upon his contention as to the Senate's privileges in a manner that caused Senator Lodge and other Constitutional "authorities" to pause, as was shown by the failure of the committee to take any action on the Fall resolution, which practically meant war with Mexico.

"Only one of the two Houses of Congress is associated with the President in an advisory capacity," wrote Mr. Wilson, "and the advice of the Senate is provided for only when sought by the executive in regard to explicit agreements with foreign governments," etc. "The only safe course, I am confident, is to adhere to the prescribed methods of the Constitution. We might go very far afield if we departed from it."

Washington political observers believe this admitted defeat of the Republican majority in its attempt to usurp the Presidential functions as provided by the Constitution, will cause a lull in the studied attempts to bait President Wilson, no matter whether the ostensible target is Mexico or the European situation.

RAGSDALE CASE IS NON-SUITED

Petition Must Name New Grounds To Keep Case In Court.

Judge Evans in passing upon the Pembroke damage case, in which J. T. Ragsdale sued twenty-five prominent prohibitionists for putting him out of the saloon business, has left Ragsdale no room to stand upon in court. He virtually holds that Ragsdale has no grounds for damages, without new declarations. Hearing on this has been set for Feb. 20, at Paducah.

THIS FIGHTER TO BE AGRICULTURAL AGENT

Actions speak louder than words, but words such as these speak for themselves: "I shall put forth my utmost endeavors to prove worthy of the courteous interest manifested in my behalf by all your people."

The man who wrote these words to the Federal Board for Vocational Education was W. M. Phipps, of Lexington, Ky., and he meant what he said. He was one of the millions of American boys who fought for world peace and he was one of the two hundred thousands who were wounded, or disabled, in the service of their country.

When he received the wound in his left foot which made long marches and constant standing a thing of the past, he went back home expecting to take up farming again. However, when he got right at it he found that foot a drawback.

Finally he thought he would have to give it up and take up teaching, in which he had some experience, but Phipps had a wife who had been born and raised on the farm, and a father who had always been a farmer, and the life of the soil was in his blood.

He interview some of the Government agents about it, and they told him that the thing to do was to take a year's course in agriculture at the University of Kentucky and with his practical experience, and his training he would be the very man for County Agricultural Agent. The Government would foot the bill.

Phipps got their view-point. He went to the university and it was later that he wrote this letter, or wrote the letter, in which he promised to put forth his utmost endeavors. His action in good work and enthusiastic application has proved how he regards a promise, and Kentucky can look out for another good Agricultural Agent in the near future.

ONLY ONE NAME OVER COUNTY

Few Would Guess What Name Is the Most General in Directories.

Speaking of names, the seven telephone directories of Christian county show that only one name appears general enough to be on all of the lists. Two names—Williams and Jones—appear on as many as six. Williams is on all except Gracey, though there are only 18 in all.

Johnson is a close second having 36, with 22 in Hopkinsville, 10 in Bluff Springs and 4 in Crofton.

Boyd ties Johnson in Hopkinsville with 22. It really leads, as Johnson and Johnston are both county to make 22. Boyd also appears 5 times at Crofton and one at Edgeton, making 28.

Clark is third in Hopkinsville with 20. Crofton has 7 and LaFayette 1, making 28.

It even beats Smith which has 11 in Hopkinsville, 6 in Gracey, 6 in Crofton, 3 in Pembroke, 26 in all but none in LaFayette, Edgeton or Bluff Springs.

STATE BOARD ORGANIZES

The Baptist State Board of Missions at Louisville appropriated $110,000 as a nucleus for a $1,000,000 fund for the erection of the new plant of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary on its site on the Brownsboro road, which was proposed some time ago. The appropriation was made from over-subscriptions to the Baptist $75,000,000 fund. This action is in line with the announcement made months ago that the needs of the seminary would be taken care of in this campaign. State leaders hope that other State Boards will promptly provide the remaining $890,000 from their over-subscriptions.

The board announced appropriations totalling $1,300,000 for various denominational enterprises, the largest in its history.

The Louisville Baptists Orphans' Home and the Glendale Children's Home were unified.

The Rev. C. W. Elsey, Cynthia, was elected chairman of the board; the Rev. O. E. Bryan, Louisville, executive secretary; the Rev. E. C. Stevens, Louisville, Secretary. Appointment of the Rev. J. W. Porter and the Rev. E. B. Hatcher as managing and news editors of the Western Recorder was approved.

The association in which Louisville is situated went over its quota more than $200,000, and it was from this excess that the $110,000 was appropriated.

BLOOD TELLS IN HORSES.

There has been a great revival of the business of breeding thoroughbred horses since the war ended, not only in this country but in the countries of Europe, especially England. The race horse blood demonstrated its superiority even in war horses, the thoroughbred animal proving stronger and developing more powers of endurance wherever tried. The war taught the importance of breeding race horses for practical purposes. Racing was curtailed in England and in this country to a great extent during the war, but there is now a nation-wide disposition to restore the blooded horse to his place of pre-eminence and 1920 is to witness a development of widespread interest in the thoroughbred industry. A very interesting article bearing on this subject appears in this issue.

Lost and Found

By WALTER J. DELANEY

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

There was the swing and the smile of unrestrained sheer joy of living present with Ruby Dale as she crossed a vacant space to the house of the nearest neighbor.

"Nearest—and dearest!" she whispered laughingly to herself, and then flushed peony red and she glanced at a ring on her white shapely hand with sparkling eyes and kissed it.

"Oh, how silly, but delightful!" chirruped Ruby, flushing again.

A new interest in life seemed to have been born in her since the previous afternoon. She was one of the party of agreeable young people who had comprised a picnic party. She had been the special invited guest of Dorothy Bell, but before the day was over the brother of that young lady, Aylmer Bell had appropriated her completely and accompanied her clear to the door of her home.

Ruby's eyes glistened as she recalled that delicious half-hour lingering at the gate in the clear white moonlight. She had known the Bells only since they had taken the next house a month previous. Aylmer had arrived from college only a week since, but had eyes for Ruby only among the town belles. His attentions flattered, and then attracted her. Certainly he was a handsome, courteous, bright-spirited young man. She was radiant with excitement and the sure dawning of first love.

Ruby had noticed that her escort wore a ring of peculiar pattern bearing several cabalistic signs set in mosaic across a seal surface, and Aylmer had recited quite a story appertaining to its origin, and history.

"A student from India gave it to me," he told Ruby. "We got quite chummy. It's a sort of magic wishing ring in his country, he told me. I've made my wish. Suppose you wear it for a spell? Maybe you have some special wish. Try it. And both laughed gleefully, but Ruby with a thrill as she met those expressive eyes of Aylmer, plainly revealing how pleased he was to have her accept the romantic token proffered.

Aylmer's sister had phoned the evening previous. "Brother and I are planning something grand in the way of a social entertainment," she told Ruby.

Alas! for ideals of human felicity. The Bell place occupied extensive garden space, and thus was accessible by gateways on three sides. Ruby traversed a graveled path, crossed a tennis court and came to a sudden halt.

Her gaze was transfixed. A little distance ahead was a garden bench. Seated upon it was a very lovely woman. By her side was an open book upon which her glance was fixed and her lips moved as though she was reading from it. At her feet, in the attitude of some devoted cavalier, was Aylmer Bell.

He held one hand of the strange lady and seemed pleading to her in tumultuous emotion. She drew close to him and he pressed a kiss upon her cheek.

Her face aflame, her soul aroused to deep amazement and disappointment, Ruby turned. Her eyes flashed as she removed the ring he had given her, flung it across a grass plat, and retraced her way homeward to seek her room sobbing and in tears. It was an hour later when her sister ran up the stairs.

"Oh! Ruby, dear," she announced, "Miss Bell is here and wishes to see you."

Ruby repressed her wretchedness and went downstairs to find Aylmer's sister on the porch, her automobile at the curb.

"I can linger only a moment," she spoke. "Why did you not come? Aylmer waited and Mrs. Estes, too. She is our sister-in-law, you know, and we are to give a little play at our next entertainment with you and Aylmer as hero and heroine. She wants to coach you on your part. Aylmer has been in training all the morning. Shall we say five for the first rehearsal?"

"If you please," replied Ruby meekly, and as her visitor left, a new relieved and happy light came into her eyes. She discovered her error now regarding the garden scene. She tripped along joyously as she neared the place a few hours later. As before she entered the garden.

"The ring—I must recover it!" she breathed eagerly, and she was down on her knees upon the little grass plat where she had cast it away. A cry of gladness escaped her lips as she came across it. She pressed it to her lips, started and looked up.

"Why, Miss Dale, looking for something," questioned Aylmer Bell, a queer wrinkle about the lips.

"I—I lost your ring," stammered Ruby, "but I have found it," and paused, blushing crimson.

He drew nearer to her. Well was he aware of her caprice of a few hours previous. The situation, that sweet embarrassed face won both pity and love. He took her hands in his, own.

"I hope soon to replace the ring with another," he said tenderly. "Have you wished yet? When you do, let me hope it will be in accordance with my own wish—that still another ring will be acceptable, later on."

And Ruby, understanding him, did not take her hand away from that loving clasp.

BOUGHT "FLUFFY" WIVES

Chicago.—Three lonesome South Dakota cattle kings descended on Chicago yesterday and told the world in loud tones they were looking for "fluffy" wives.

Last night they had retired incommunicado at their hotel with instructions "to shoo all females whatever" away from their doors.

When J. R. Stevens arrived for the big cattle show the thing uppermost in his mind was "taking back a little shimmie queen who wears silk things and powders her nose," so he told reporters.

T. F. Tormey and A. S. Robish, millionaires, echoed his statement.

No sooner had this longing—and their commercial ratings—been proclaimed than they were besieged at their hotels by the most imposing covey of blondes, brunettes and bro-mides gathered in one spot since Hobson's return. Chorus girls, elevator girls, lonesome widows and all other known types gave the cattle men something to think about all day long.

"We've changed our minds," was the communique issued last night.

WHAT DID THE IRISHMAN SAY?

(Rehoboth Sunday Herald.)

Two travelers, on English and the other Irish, were touring the back woods of Australia, and arriving at a certain settlement, they were given hospitality by a good-looking woman living in a small but spotlessly clean hut. Requiring further attention during the evening, they were waited upon by a Chinaman. Curious, they asked the woman who the Chinaman might be—her servant perhaps. "No," replied the woman, "he's my husband."

"What?" A nice white woman like you marry a Chinaman?"

"Oh, that's nothing," said the woman, "I've a sister, and she's married to an Irishman!"

A Calico Girl

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1915 by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"Good-by till next year, little Doris!" hailed Sidney Throop from the old-fashioned carryall, conveying himself and three fellow vacationers from camp to the little railroad depot.

He waved his hand in kindly fare well at the forlorn figure of a girl of sixteen, Doris Lee, who stood at the rustic gate of her uncle's home. She smiled bravely, then turned her head away, and Paul Faber, at the side of Throop, noticing a fluttering handkerchief, remarked:

"I declare! That little sprite is sorry to have you leave—she's crying."

"I am sorry myself," replied Sidney gravely. "It has been a pleasure to know such an unspoiled child of nature."

"She hasn't been the same since yesterday—seems to have avoided the crowd for some reason or other."

"I can tell you why," piped in another. "She looked positively awed when Faber's sister stopped at the camp in her automobile. I suppose the poor little wild flower was stunned at the magnificence of the acknowledged belle of the season."

So the episode passed, but Sidney Throop sat silent and thoughtful. Their camp had been located in close proximity to the farm owned by the uncle of Doris, and it had been her task to bring fresh milk and cream morning and evening to the temporary sojourners. An artless, innocent child, she had the good fortune to deal with real gentlemen, and as the days ran on grew to regard them as true friends.

"If I am to do the extra chores of carrying milk and eggs and chickens to the picnicers," said Doris to her uncle the next day, you must allow me a little pin money."

"Why not?" interrogated Mr. Lee good naturedly. "But I hope seeing these gay people from the city hasn't put a lot of vanity into that sensible little head of yours."

Ever since the day she had met the fashionable Miss Anice Faber there had become a model established in the mind of Doris as to what the real lady of society should look like.

"I suppose Mr. Thorpe made some wide comparisons between that silk-and-lace beauty and humble little me in calico," mused Doris, and naturally a trifle bitterly, and then a change came over her. She nurtured a species of reserve and every penny of pin money she acquired she put carefully away. Gradually her wardrobe began to include little articles of feminine adornment dear to the girlish heart.

A year had rolled around and Mr. Lee informed Doris that "the crowd of young fellows," as he termed it, had advised him that they would take the old camp cottage for a month.

Doris was in a bewildering state of animation. For a full year she had dreamed, planned and saved. It almost took away the breath of the poor vacationers when there burst upon their vision the afternoon of their arrival a new and glorified Doris.

She wore a silky, scaly dress skirt, quite "vampish," having a certain trailing arbutus effect. It fitted like the fuzz of a clingstone peach. Her breath came quick, her eyes glowed like diamonds, but as the four young men greeted her friendly enough, but vaguely, Doris shivered. Somehow she traced not only surprise in their faces, but a certain reproachful, pitying sentiment.

The unusual gravity of Thorpe crushed her. The young face clouded when she had ascertained what supplies they would require daily from the farmhouse. Doris hastened from the camp, reached a covert, and threw herself on the ground in a wild paroxysm of vexation and disappointment.

"What is the trouble, little friend?" spoke Sidney, who had followed her, and she came to her feet angry and defiant. She darted one look at him and fled precipitately. To both a correct conception had come. Sidney at once comprehended that the foolish little maid had modeled herself after Miss Faber to appear modern and impressive, and she realized that she must appear grotesque and out of her element, and her vanity was wounded. Like some penitent she appeared at the camp in propria persona the following morning, her own modest natural self. She was reserved and looked pained and humbled. Sidney accompanied her as she started home.

"Dear little friend," he spoke almost tenderly. "It seems good to see the bright fairy we all of us love once again as nature intended her."

"And I did it all for you!" sobbed Doris. "Miss Faber—"

"Miss Faber, confidentially, has wrinkles to conceal, and none of your lovely roses on her cheeks," observed Sidney.

"But I am only a calico girl, and I thought that if I was dressed like Miss Faber—"

"Made up, you mean," interrupted Sidney. "You don't need that." He could scarcely resist the impulse to take her in his arms in all her artless grace and beauty. "Doris, dear," he said seriously, "there is one man who always wishes to find you as you are—a sweet child of nature—one who hopes some day to have you as all his own—myself."

And she read truth and adoration in his earnest, longing eyes, and was content.

FAILED TO TASTE OR SMELL FIRST

Three persons have reported to the police that they have been victimized by a negro who sold them a quart of fluid purporting to be good whiskey, but which turned out to be vinegar. The prices paid were $8 to $12 per quart, and the trading was always done in an alley. Each time the vinegar was in a regular whiskey bottle, bore a nice clean label of a standard brand and across the top was a government bottled-in-bond stamp. It was the latter which convinced the purchasers of the genuineness of the contents and caused them to buy without first tasting. How the negro secured the stamps is a mystery. None of the purchasers knew the negro.

Get Acquainted With

The Original Patented Pipeless Furnace

The Caloric Pipeless Furnace is guaranteed to heat your entire home with only one register. More than 50,000 Calorics are now in use, and during the coldest days of last winter kept homes warmer with less fuel than the old style heating systems they displaced.

We do not ask you to experiment with this furnace. We KNOW what it will do. If we recommend it for your home after studying your floor plans, it is installed with an absolute guarantee of perfect heat in all rooms. If it does not do exactly as we claim for it after a fair trial, we will take it out at no expense to you.

Do not confuse the Caloric with the ordinary furnace. It is not an old-style furnace with the pipes left off, but an entirely new method of heating. It heats the air—sends the pure, fresh warmth through the house, draws the colder air back into the furnace to be purified and heated and again started on its trip through every room.

35% Fuel Saving

Because of its one register, the Caloric accomplishes better heating results with less fuel. Some owners claim fifty to seventy-five per cent saving. We know that it will save thirty-five per cent over any other method.

Demonstration At This Store

We shall have a special demonstration of the Caloric at this store. Come in and talk to us. We will carefully go over your heating requirements, and if we recommend the Caloric, we will give you an absolute guarantee of satisfactory performance in your own home. This written guarantee is backed by us and the manufacturers.

KENTUCKY CHILDRENS' HOME

The campaign of the Kentucky Children's Home Society for funds to build its new home on the farm is progressing nicely, though returns are slow to come in from the rural schools.

Mr. W. H. Collins, financial agent of the Society was here Thursday looking after the situation in Christian county. After consultation with Prof. J. C. Waller, city superintendent, and others it was decided to postpone the canvass in Hopkinsville till after Christmas, when conditions are again normal. Some of the rural schools in this county have raised their quota and much more while others have fallen behind and still others have not reported. Supt. Foster has a substantial amount in his hands now, and urges all the schools to raise their quotas and more if possible, and report to him before the holidays.

This institution has taken a large number of our destitute children to give him the vocational from the county judge, that no one else would have. We must not let Christian county fail to do her whole duty in raising her apportionment.

ITALIAN CONSUL GENERAL LAUDS VOCATIONAL BOARD

Vincenzo Maniaracina after being seven years in the United States left this country in 1915 to join the Italian army motor corps. There he served with distinction until he was disabled for service in one of the battles on the Piave where he was totally blinded, and badly wounded in the leg.

As soon as he could he came back to America where he felt that even with his handicap he still had a chance to succeed. He had already taken out his first citizenship papers before the war, which enabled the Federal Board of Vocational Education with the aid of the Elks fund training which he need to carry on blinded.

He is now at the Exchange and Training School for the Blind in Brooklyn, New York, studying the fundamentals of English, reading, writing, etc., which will be a foundation for further vocational training.

The Italian Consul in New York writes the Board: "I beg you to transmit my heartfelt thanks to the Rehabilitation Division for the generosity and goodness with which they have taken into consideration the case of Vincenzo Maniaracina. It is another of the innumerable proofs of the generosity of the great people of this great country."

Lady Bountiful

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

It was a matter of no small wonderment when, after a mysterious absence from his accustomed haunts, Derby Dan reappeared attired respectably and with money to treat his friends royally.

"Left a legacy?" "Struck a new lay?" "Found a pocketbook?" and like expressions hailed Dan, but he only smiled wisely and, as his money finally gave out, ceased to be an object of comment and interest to all except Baldy Moss, who was his chosen chum in famine and plenty alike, and one day Dan confided his secret to Baldy.

"Tell you, partner," he recited, "I struck a queer snap. A young fellow made a bargain with me at three dollars a day to keep sober, report at his room every evening from seven to nine and answer his questions?"

"About what?" propounded Baldy skeptically.

"Oh, how we fellows of the tomato can and the rope belt live. Human interest information, was the way he put it. I told him all I knew. One day he says: 'I guess we will cancel the engagement, Dan, I must confess to being disappointed in you. It's the pathetic and pitiful, the real struggles and misery of the poor and unfortunate I have been looking for.'"

"Why, whatever was he after?"

"He's a story writer, or tries or hopes to be. He was looking for real experience and characters."

"I see, I see," nodded Baldy musingly. "Say, Dan, if ever we run across him point him out, will you?"

It was about a week after that when Dan suddenly seized Baldy's arm and pointed to a young man crossing the street.

"That's him," he spoke quickly.

"Leave the rest to me," directed Baldy, and put off on the trail of Merrill Hoyt with the hall: "Mister, can I have a word with you?"

"Certainly," nodded Merrill.

"I heard you're one of those guys who write for the papers," projected Baldy. "I guess, too, that you want to dig under the surface and get a thriller with lots of pep in it, hey?"

"You seem to have surmised what I'm trying to find," answered Merrill with a whimsical smile.

"Well, I ain't much up in literature, but I suppose you are after heroes and sheros. I know one good and beautiful as an angel. She came to the tenement where I used to live before my wife died and I went to pieces, and started in to help the sick and needy. Say, that girl has worked all day in the factory and uses every cent she can spare for others. They call her Lady Bountiful, but her real name is Alice Lisle. Last week she pawned her neck chain to buy a baby buggy for a little crippled child and pay the rent for a sick washerwoman. Say, I believe there's a mystery about her, too, and that's what you want in stories, don't you? She isn't no common clay, that's sure, and her pretty face and ways in a movie picture would make a whole play of itself."

Baldy furnished further details and Merrill bestowed a five-dollar bill upon him, but Baldy's final words were: "I say, mister, if Lady Bountiful turns out to be a princess in disguise and your story about her makes you famous, you'll blow me to an extra ten, eh?"

One week later Merrill Hoyt became a room tenant of an old woman on the same floor where Miss Lisle was located. The first sight he had of the young lady carried out the claim of Baldy that she was indeed "good and beautiful as an angel." A week spent in close proximity to herself and her humble neighbors proved a revelation to Merrill. There was not a woman or child in the old tenement that had not some story of kindness to disclose. Then Merrill was introduced to Miss Lisle by his landlady. Day by day he learned more and more to estimate her royal worth and night after night he wrote upon "his great book," which her loveliness and helpfulness inspired.

Merrill fell ill and never knew who had aided in nursing him until he was back to normal. It was his landlady who told him of the visits of Miss Lisle to assist her in caring for the delirious patient.

"And oh," she said, "how you raved, and all about her, and how you were going to write her in a lovely story. And she blushed so beautifully when in your fever you began to talk about love, and how she should be your own when you sold your book and—here she comes now."

And, flushing from self-consciousness, Alice Lisle entered the room. It was the beginning of a pleasant association mutually cherished, and a few weeks later, well and strong again, Merrill told his love and all the story of his object in coming to the tenement.

"We will have to wait till my book brings in returns," he told the reciprocally happy girl, who smiled strangely and added a bewildering confidence.

She was the owner of the tenement and had a fortune of her own, and had assumed the role of a poor girl to get closer to the lives of the needy and lowly.

"We must share what I have together, dear," she whispered to Merrill. "For oh! the good we may do for these poor people whom we have taken into our lives."

HOW DREAMS COME TRUE

Some thirty days ago a few business men of Fort Worth, Texas, organized and founded a joint stock Association called the Equitable Oil Co., of Ft. Worth Texas. These men purchased the most proven acreage in Texas' largest oil field. The "Desdemona Field." Their object was to get a lease where the chance of not finding oil was eliminated, which they did. They decided to drill two wells, and upon the completion of these wells to sell the entire company to one of the large corporations who make it a business to buy production only. The entire proceeds of this sale to be divided equally between the stockholders of this company as per each individual share. As soon as this company was organized sixty per cent of the stock was subscribed by the directors and their friends and since then, fifteen per cent has been subscribed from all parts of the country—from people who know the holding of the company and the men behind it.

The company now has the remaining twenty-five per cent which they are offering the people of Christian county. They have let the contract for the first well which is now drilling, and are now waiting on the sale of the remaining stock to begin drilling on the second. The holdings of this company where they are now drilling are entirely surrounded by big producers of not less than 1800 barrels per day and some as high as 3,000 barrels per day.

Oil wells sell on a basis of one million dollars per thousand barrels. No company surrounding this well has sold for less than two million dollars. This company has a capitalization of $100,000. If they should only get a thousand barrels in each of their wells every stockholder would receive twenty dollars for each dollar invested. This stock is selling for $2.00 per share, will advance to $3.00 December 21, 1919. Use your own judgment and get in. Even if you have only fifty or one hundred dollars to invest. You can't get a fortune on that small an investment, but you can get a good start towards one. Figure it out—(twenty to one on your money.)

The officers of this company are above reproach and have the reputation of handling other people's money as they would their own. Any bank in Fort Worth will testify to this. Ninety per cent of the wells in the Desdemona Field are big producers and one hundred per cent of the wells in their vicinity are producers. Doesn't this sound and look like a reasonable investment? A man has so much to gain and so little to lose. So we think, and we are sure you will think so, too. This stock is going to advance on Dec. 21, 1919 to $3.00 per share. So get in now. If they only get one thousand barrels in their first well, they will already have made $10 on the $1 invested. They expect their well in by New Years. Get in and help share in this gift of Nature. If you are in any way interested, phone, write or mail your check.

STATE BOARD OF BAPTISTS

Met Monday and Will See That Bethel College Gets Part of Big Fund.

Dr. J. W. Gaines returned Wednesday from attending the meeting of the State Board of the General Baptist Association at Louisville. The Board decided that the excess above the quota, voted to schools, would not be available until the entire quota of $6,500,000 has been paid in. Bethel Woman's College will begin to realize on its part of the fund at once and as the campaign progresses will draw upon its $100,000 already appropriated for improvements. Dr. Gaines says there was a most favorable impression that Bethel will be well cared for in the future.

SPECIAL ATHLETICS AID THE DISABLED MEN IN TRAINING

One handicap which has as high a rate as any other among the disabled service men is a weak heart.

Numbers of men with weak hearts are among the disabled men who are training under the Federal Board for Vocational Education at the various educational institutions of the country.

This type of disabled man who is working hard to put himself back in the fighting line needs a certain amount of exercise. Special exercise is devised for them. Chest weights are used to develop chest muscles. The wise use of the medicine ball means an output of strength which generates more.

These Federal Board boys are graduates in their diverse vocations with the mentality to make them successes, and the training to give them skill. They will also have the physical strength without which the most easy road is an uphill climb.

Better Than Medicine.

Remember that medicine is, for most part, nothing but the substitute of exercise and right thinking. And it does not take a great deal of either right thinking or fresh air to enable you to throw off any ordinary symptom of illness. All that is necessary is for you to hold in your mind the thought that you are both healthy and cheerful.

"Sure There is a Santa Claus"

Hopkinsville Is Thriving Town

Prosperity of "Pennyville" City Last Four Years Held Phenomenal.

By Claude W. Perry.
(Courier-Journal Correspondent.)

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 8.—This is the town the "night riders" swooped down upon and "shot up" one night in 1907. The site of the tobacco warehouse burned by them on that occasion is now Pence Park, its name intended to commemorate settlement of the night rider trouble that grew out of starvation prices of tobacco. The park was given to the city by John C. Latham, now dead, and was named by him. He also presented the city with another, Virginia Park, and $50,000 for maintenance of both.

Thirteen thousand people live in this town, the metropolis of the "Pennyville," and just now they are anxious to take over the sewer system by a private corporation. The will cost about $50,000. Some for issuance of bonds to buy it, while others advocate having the property owners who benefit by the sewers pay for them.

Dr. Frank H. Bassett, Mayor of Hopkinsville, is giving much of his time to the sewerage problem. Also is attempting to figure out how he can make up the $25,000 lost to the city annually through elimination of saloon licenses. He is being assisted in this matter by John W. Richards and H. H. Golay, newly-elected commissioners. It is considered probable that a vocational tax will be imposed to meet the situation.

Leads State in Wheat.

Although Christian, of which this is the county seat, has always been looked upon as a big tobacco-growing center, 40,000,000 pounds of the weed being disposed of in this county annually, it may not be generally known that it is the banner wheat-growing county in the state. Most of the wheat is grown in the southern half of the county. Corn, clover and oats are the other principal crops. Stock raising is extensively engaged in also.

Farm lands that formerly brought $50 to $100 an acre now sells for $250 an acre. The county south of Hopkinsville, for about twenty miles square, is almost as level as a prairie, and the section is one of the richest, from the standpoint of fertility, in Kentucky.

This is one of the few counties in the State in which Edwin P. Morrow, Governor, failed to make as good showing in the recent election as he did four years ago, when he made his race for Governor against A. O. Stanley. He received a substantial majority in Christian, however, and a big delegation, headed by Edgar Renshaw, local business man, left here today for Frankfort to participate in the inaugural parade. Every member of the delegation carried a broom, signifying the intention of the Republicans to "sweep the state clean" following the seating of the newly-elected officials.

Normally, Christian county is Republican by 1,200 majority, but occasionally a Democrat slips into office.

John C. Duffy, a leading attorney and former County Attorney, was one of the first Democrats in years to be elected to a county office in Christian. On the first occasion, in the fall of 1909, he was elected by one vote, but four years later was re-elected by 749 majority. He also served one term in the Kentucky House of Representatives from this legislative district.

Two years ago L. E. Foster, Democrat, defeated in the recent election for the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was elected County School Superintendent without opposition, and O. M. Wilson, Democrat, was elected County Assessor.

About 75 per cent of the Republican voters of the county are negroes, it has been estimated, but they know their places and are not offensive or assertive.

Fine School System.

J. C. Waller, is superintendent of city schools here, and is said to have made an enviable reputation in that connection. Hopkinsville is proud of its school buildings and efficiency of its teachers. The High School building here, formerly known as the Belmont school, was erected at a cost of $100,000, and is one of the handsomest structures of its kind in the State.

The Virginia-street School and the West Side School are both handsome structures, modern in every respect, and cost approximately $50,000 each. The old McLean College property is also being used as a city school building.

Christian county has about 275 miles of macadam roads, 88 miles of which is in fairly good condition, according to F. M. Hamby, County Engineer. Both County Judge Champlin and Mr. Hamby would like for the Legislature during the coming session to change the present State-aid law so that all auto license fees, up to a certain amount, would go to the county instead of to the State. Judge Champlin would base the number of license fees collected by the county on the county's population, permitting all fees in excess of the amount collectable under a proposed law to go to the state for distribution among the poorer counties. He favors having the State build and maintain all inter-county seat roads, however.

V. M. Williamson will represent Christian county in the lower branch of the General Assembly this winter and Frank Rives, holdover, will represent this senatorial district, made up of Christian and Hopkins counties.

Asylum Hit By H. C. L.

Here in Christian county, a short distance from Hopkinsville, is the Western Kentucky Hospital for the Insane, in charge of Dr. Fred G. LaRue, formerly of Livingston county. He was appointed during the early part of the Stanley administration. His chief assistants are Dr. J. C. Sullivan, Graves county; Dr. T. B. House, Callaway county, and Dr. Louise Miller. There are 1,383 patients and 165 officers and employees.

Since March, 1918, the State has been appropriating for maintenance of the institution $190 a patient, but this Legislature will be asked to increase this appropriation to at least $225; Dr. LaRue finding it impossible, he said, in view of the high cost of living to maintain the institution properly on the present allowance.

Connected with the institution are 726 acres of ground, about 600 acres of which are under cultivation or in pasture. A large dairy herd is maintained.

Christian county folk do not think much of the proposed plan to broaden the powers of the Railroad Commission by placing under its jurisdiction all public service corporations, according to John C. Duffy, defeated in his race for the Democratic nomination for Railroad Commissioner from the First Railroad District by Mayor Frank N. Burns, Paducah. The voters of this county, Mr. Duffy said, feel that the municipality should retain control of the public service corporations, residents of a municipality being the persons most intimately affected.

City Hospital a Credit.
Hopkinsville has a most creditable City Hospital, given to the city by Dr. E. S. Stuart, Fairview, eleven miles distant, where a monument to Jefferson Davis, President of the Southern Confederacy, now is being erected. The institution is known as the Jennie Stuart Memorial Hospital, in memory of Dr. Stuart's wife.

John C. Latham, who gave to Hopkinsville two of its city parks, was one of the greatest benefactors the city has known. He was born and reared in the county and died some nine or ten years ago. He was a Confederate soldier, and later went to New York, where he engaged in banking. He made a fortune of more than $1,000,000 in New York City and before his death gave $15,000 toward erection of the Confederate monument in the cemetery here. He gave $50,000 to Grace Episcopal church, Hopkinsville.

Another Hopkinsville philanthropist was W. A. Wilgus, one of the founders of the Kentuckian, a tri-weekly newspaper published here now by Chas. M. Meacham and Capt. H. A. Long, the latter a returned overseas soldier. Mr. Wilgus left all his estate, valued at $35,000 or more, to be expended in founding of play grounds in Hopkinsville. He died in 1915.

The Hopkinsville tobacco market draws tobacco from ten counties. For the most part the weed is of the drak variety, with a few crops of Burley.

There are a number of large flouring mills here, a wagon manufacturing plant that turned out wagons and trucks for the Government during the war, and a number of other concerns that afford employment to many persons.

The American Snuff Company is a big buyer of tobacco here. The Imperial Tobacco Company and the Forbes Manufacturing Company are two big concerns. The W. G. Duncan Company buys tobacco here for the Italian market.

Business Club Is Live Wire.
Hopkinsville has four banks and a business Men's Association that corresponds with Boards of Trade and Commercial Clubs of other cities. This is said to be one of the liveliest organizations in the State.

The prosperity of Christian county the last four years has been phenomenal, residents say. There is not an idle man in the county.

More miles of turnpike were built in Christian county the eight years the Democrats were in the saddle here, according to local Democratic leaders, than in all preceding years under Republican control.

Christian county is fast becoming a strawberry-growing section. At Pembroke, near here, 250 acres of ground are devoted to the growing of strawberries. It has been estimated that the next crop of strawberries should bring the growers $125,000. The county has a Strawberry Growers' Association, of which George Rives is president.

Three railroads, connected by a belt line, enter Hopkinsville. They are the Illinois Central, the Tennessee Central and the Louisville & Nashville.

The Federal building here in Hopkinsville was erected five or six years ago at a cost of $80,000.

One of the distinctive educational institutions here is Bethel Woman's College operated under auspices of the Baptists of the State. It has a $100,000 endowment, and is the only Baptist institution in the State exclusively for women. The students recently presented the board of trustees with $5,300 as a nucleus for a new dormitory.

The Baptist churches here recently went "over the top" in the 75 million

The sides of the trough are not easy to walk on even if they are polished in this case instead of being greased. To walk it requires the turning in of the feet, and this constantly raises the arch, and helps the defect in the instep. It is a great scheme which has been inaugurated for the men.

Some of these colleges and schools are determined to make these boys, who are handicapped with wounds or diseased by their war service, leave them all better trained vocationally and physically.

CONGRESS TO CABINET
IN TEN MINUTES

"A bolt from the blue sky," is the way Secretary of Commerce Joshua W. Alexander, of Gallatin, Mo., announces his recent appointment to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of former Secretary David F. Held. Secretary Alexander was a congressman from Missouri, but was at his home visiting when the call came from the White House for the conference and appointment.

BRAIN AND BRAWN FOR THE DISABLED MEN

One bend to one side and one bend to the other side! It isn't an instruction for a new dance, but a diagnosis of the spinal curvature in the back of one of the disabled soldiers who is now in training at college under the Federal Board of Vocational Education.

Spinal curvature is prevalent among the disabled service men. At one college where they are in training there are special courses of corrective exercises given them which are especially suited to their disabilities and needs.

Chest weights, wall and triplex tent to correct spinal trouble by development of the back and lungs. Other exercise are given and the men improve under them.

Sway back, round shoulders and slight spinal troubles are in many a man's back, who doesn't know it. As soon as it is discovered he is at once put to work of correcting it as far as possible.

Women Doctors.

It was in 1874 that the London School of Medicine for Women was founded. This was the first of its class. Shortly afterward women were allowed to take the medical degree of the Universities of Dublin, London and Durham. But it has been in more recent years that the fair sex in large numbers have ventured to practice.

Governor and Mrs. John E. Osborne and daughter, Jean Curtis, of Rawlins, Wyo., arrived last week to spend the holidays with relatives and friends in the city.—Princeton Leader.

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffering. Black-Draught Relieved.

Meadersville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before."

I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape.

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use."

Theodore's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects, it has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it. NO-125

Never the Same Again.

Friendship is a vase which, when it is flawed by heat or violence, or accident, may as well be broken at once; it can never be trusted after. The more graceful and ornamental it was, the more clearly do we discern the hopelessness of restoring it to its former state. Coarse stones, if they be fractured, may be cemented again; precious ones, never.—Walter S. Landon.

Condition to Avoid.

The dangerous moment in life comes when men begin to over-value the past at the expense of the present. It is the moment of religious controversies, for ancestor worship, for narrowing in, for exalting one set of people and excluding another. When we reach it, it means that we are growing old. But we need never reach it.—Exchange.

A Perfect Arm.

The proportions of the perfect arm in a woman of about 5 feet 5 inches are as follows: The circumference of the upper arm should be about 13 inches, that of the fore arm 9 inches and of the wrist 6 inches. The upper arm should be one-third shorter than the forearm.

Ninety-six staple articles increased 1.3 per cent during November. Building materials reached new high high marks. The cost of living is now 161 per cent above pre-war prices.

ENTIRE BLOCK Savage Property==St. Charles Court Property

On the above date we offer to the public some of the best business property there is in the city.

FIRST, we call your attention to what is known as the SAVAGE PROPERTY—located on North Main Street, in less than 600 feet from the Court House. This property occupies the entire square between Third and Fourth streets and between Main and Virginia.

We will make this statement without fear of contradiction that this is the only block of property on Main street that can be bought at any price. The location of this property makes it especially valuable—it is practically in the business section of the city and is accessible from four streets. Did you ever have the opportunity before of buying a piece of property like this?

Think of seeing a modern tobacco warehouse covering this entire property—there is nothing like it in Western Kentucky. It does not make any difference how much money you may have, you cannot have a desirable place to do business unless you have a desirable lot to put your building on.

We do not believe it is necessary that we call special attention to the business men of Hopkinsville as to the value of this piece of property. We believe that you fully realize and appreciate the value of a piece of property like this, and if you stand idly by and see someone else buy this property you will have no one to blame and no one will be the loser but you.

WE SHALL FIRST OFFER THIS PROPERTY IN TWELVE SEPARATE LOTS—SIX of which will front Main Street, 28.8 feet each, and run back between parallel lines 132 feet to a Ten-Foot Alley. Then we shall offer the SIX lots, each of which front 28.8 feet on Virginia Street and run back between parallel lines 132 feet to a Ten-Foot Alley. Then we shall offer the SALVAGE on all of said lot to be moved off after May 1st, 1920. Then we shall total the amounts that all of said lots brought together with the salvage and offer the entire block as a whole and should we receive a bid in excess of the amount it brought separately, then we reserve the right to sell it as a whole.

THE TERMS ARE: One-half cash Feb. 1st, 1920; One-fourth Feb. 1st, 1921; One-fourth Feb. 1st, 1922, with lien retained in deed to secure deferred payments which shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent from and after Feb. 1st, 1920. There will be no interest due until Feb. 1st, 1920, when the cash payment is to be made but party purchasing same will be required to execute bond for the cash payment due Feb. 1st, 1920.

Possession of the residence shall be given May 1st, 1920. Party purchasing same is to pay 1920 taxes.

This property is being sold for DIVISION among the heirs. There will be no rejection and no by-bidding and it will go absolutely to the highest bidder.

St. Charles Court Property

THE SALE OF THIS PROPERTY will take place immediately after the Savage Sale, at the corner of Seventh and Clay Streets in the City of Hopkinsville, Ky. This property is centrally located, within two blocks of the L. & N. Depot, three blocks of the Post Office.

This property is being sub-divided and offered separately. First we offer the lot facing twenty-five feet on East Seventh Street. Then we will offer lot No. 2 as shown on the Blue Print also facing about twenty-five feet on East Seventh Street and running back with lot No. 1 to Sixth Street. Then we shall offer lot No. 3 as shown on the Plat which is adjacent to Lot No. 2 and fronts 50 feet on Seventh Street and runs back fifty feet. All of these lots are desirable business lots.

Then we shall offer Lot No. 4, the splendid Two-Story Concrete Slate Roof Building located at the corner of Seventh and Clay streets, fronting Clay.....Feet; has a nice yard, concrete retaining wall. This building has sixteen rooms, bath, two long halls running the entire length of the building, splendid heating plant, lights and gas.

Then No. 5 as shown on the plat which also fronts Clay Street; has a large lawn in front and back yard. This is the main building and is constructed of brick—has ten large rooms, halls and bath—also heat lights and gas.

Then we shall offer No. 6 which is the new Two-Story Concrete Building that adjoins No. 5 and is on the corner of Sixth and Clay streets. This is one of the nicest apartment buildings there is in Hopkinsville—has twenty-five rooms, all modern and convenient, five bath rooms, lights, water and gas—splendid heating plant, heats the entire building. This building alone would very probably cost $25,000 today to construct. If there ever was a time in the history of Hopkinsville to buy Good Property at your own price, this is "The Time." Never before did you ever see a better lot of city property offered absolutely to the highest bid than the property that goes in this sale.

TERMS are reasonable, only one-fourth cash March 1st, 1920, and the balance in one, two and three years with interest at the rate of six per cent from and after March 1st, 1920. Party purchasing same will be required to give bond for the cash payment due March 1st, 1920. Possession Sept. 1st, 1920, but purchaser is to receive all income from property from March 1st, 1920, and will be required to carry a reasonable amount of insurance on improvements with a Loss Clause payable to the holder of said notes.

We have sold, this season, over a Million Dollars worth of Real Estate and in many instances the purchasers have been offered thousands of dollars profit. We believe the property that we are putting in this sale to be some of the best investments that we have ever had to offer to the public.

If you want to buy Hopkinsville Property that will make you money we do not believe that you will overlook this opportunity.
